MEMORANDUM

---

TO: JPD STAFF
FROM: LIEUTENANT TROY WILSON
DATE: AUGUST 4, 2008
RE: DIRECTIVE 08-007 RADIO COMMUNICAION CODES

There is an ongoing national trend to move away from “10 Codes” in police communications and to use “plain language” instead. The primary reason for this change is to eliminate miscommunication due to the many dissimilar 10-Code systems currently used around the country.

The Department of Homeland Security has developed the National Incident Management System (NIMS) which mandates the use of plain language for emergency responders. Public Safety Communications Associations such as APCO have also endorsed this movement.

Over a year ago Chief Browning announced JPD was going to move away from 10 Codes and begin to use plain language. Over this last year many of you have done a great job in making this adjustment.

In an effort to make these final adjustments, please understand that effective immediately radio users should not use 10 Codes. This also applies to location codes currently used. For example, do not use H2 for Bartlett Regional Hospital. Simply use the name of the location you are referencing. Everyone should be using plain language.

The Juneau Police Department will continue to use current Disposition Codes.

Attached are the Plain Language Radio Guide and the current Disposition Codes. The Plain Language Radio Guide is simply a guide to help ease this final transition, but most importantly use plain language that clearly communicates your radio transmission.
